vascular access for hemodialysis

During hemodialysis blood is removed and returned via the vascular access. The vascular access is put in place or created before an individual needs dialysis. The vascular access is usually placed in a patient's arm or leg.

Vascular access for hemodialysis

According to the market research report "Hemodialysis Access Market Report 2020 - COVID-19 Impact and Global Analysis by Product, End-user, and Region - Forecast to 2028"...